

PERSON CENTERED OUTCOMES TRAINING

This two-and-a-half-hour interactive training session is for people responsible for the development of meaningful outcomes within the framework of person centered thinking and planning.

We define outcomes as achievements of what is most important to the person in ways that work for them, and build upon their strengths. This fun, interactive training session will help you and your organization understand how to leverage person centered outcomes within your person centered planning framework. You'll also learn best practices on how to organize information and how these outcomes can lead to lives that are desired by the people we support.

Throughout this transformational training, our skilled trainers constantly focus on hopes and dreams while asking, "What more is possible?"

SPECIFIC TRAINING FOCUS TOPICS

Personal outcomes: We believe the best way to understand outcomes is to look inward. We start there with an exercise digging into our own personal outcomes.

Rules and Regulations: We help you navigate the complex world of outcomes within the local and national legal framework.

Supports vs. Outcomes: These phrases describe similar but different approaches to person centered training. We'll compare, contrast and help you learn to articulate these to others.

Exploring Desired Outcomes: We'll discuss how to discover and build upon desired outcomes from people we support, and how to build those into a person centered plan.

Goal Planning: The training finishes with a deep-dive into cutting-edge tools for goal planning and how that gets factored into building person centered outcomes.
